97 Independent Smallholders Complete Farmer Field School Training

In November 2022, 97 independent smallholders completed introductory training at Farmer Field School.

We are encouraged by the positive enthusiasm shown by the participants who enjoyed the combination of theory and practical sessions. Moving forward we look forward to further supporting the smallholders in improving the productivity, profitability and sustainability of the land that they own.

The value created by supporting the development of their entrepreneurial and managerial competencies is the glue that will strengthen our relationship with the smallholders.

About Farmer Field School

Farmer Field School is a capacity-building program for independent smallholders. The program has been developed in collaboration with Daemeter Consulting and is designed to provide educational and technical assistance for smallholders within our supply base to increase the implementation of responsible and sustainable agricultural practices.

Through Farmer Field School, the smallholders learn about the morphology and physiology of oil palm, composting processes, optimization of fertilizers as well as steps on managing pests, diseases, and overall soil health

Goodhope climbs to #13 in SPOTT ranking

The Sustainable Palm Oil Transparency Toolkit (SPOTT assessment conducted by the Zoological Society of London (ZSL)) scores the transparency of companies based on public disclosures of company organization, policies, and practices related to environmental, social, and governance (ESG) issues. Since undergoing the first SPOTT assessment in 2018, Goodhope has progressively increased its score, reflecting efforts to improve the public availability, quality, and scope of policies, commitments, operational data, and reporting of activities undertaken.

The SPOTT platform is useful for monitoring our ESG performance and driving continuous improvement. The Goodhope SPOTT assessment can be accessed here.
